WASHINGTON, D.C. 20510

January 10, 1975

The Honorable Julius W. Hobson
District of Columbia City Council
District Building
14th and E Streets, N.W.
Washington, D. C. 20004

Dear Councilman Hobson:

Election to public office is always a subject for congratulations--which you certainly deserve and which I am proud to offer. But election to the first elected Council of the District of Columbia in over 100 years, and an opportunity to confront some of the most perplexing problems the Nation's Capital has ever faced, is indeed a unique challenge.

To meet our respective obligations under the District of Columbia Self-Government and Governmental Reorganization Act, I feel that we will not only have to do our best individually, but will have to work together with the greatest possible degree of coordination. You may rest assured that in my capacity as the Ranking Member of both the Senate Committee on the District of Columbia and the Senate D. C. Appropriations Subcommittee and as a long time supporter of self-government for the District, I shall do all I can to insure success in this endeavor. I have also alerted Mr. Colbert I. King, who is Minority Staff Director of the Senate Committee on the District of Columbia to be prepared to assist you in your efforts.

And so this is not simply a word of congratulation, but an assurance of help and cooperation as we each start a new term and a New Year.

With best wishes,

Sincerely,

Charles McC. Mathias, Jr.
United States Senator

The first of these is the fact that the system is not a simple one. It is a complex system, and it is not possible to describe it in a simple way. It is a system that is constantly changing, and it is not possible to predict its future behavior. It is a system that is not linear, and it is not possible
 to describe it with a simple equation.

Mr. William C. McKinney
Director
Department of Environmental Services
Room 309, The Presidential Building
415 12th Street, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20004

Dear Mr. McKinney:

According to the enclosed article written by Cristine Russell which appeared in the Washington Star News on October 16, 1975 an American University research group has recently sold the state of New Jersey on an economically attractive system for manufacturing methane gas from municipal garbage and sewage. Plans are currently underway to build a large methane recovery plant in the southern part of New Jersey. The potential for energy recovery through the use of methane as a substitute for dwindling natural gas supplies is tremendous.

The article noted that the American University research group, headed by Mr. Joseph Judge, had approached the District of Columbia, but "the reception received thus far from District officials has been largely negative."

Accordingly, I would like to request a full report of contacts with American University and Joseph Judge on the issue by October 24 and an explanation on why the District of Columbia did not seriously consider the proposal.

Sincerely,

JULIUS W. HOBSON
